

Tom Hudson, CCIM Vice President

Professional Experience

With a background education in bioengineering, immunohistochemistry, and cancer research from the University of California, San Diego, Tom brings a logical and methodical approach to Hudson Peters Commercial on deals in the investment, office, and industrial markets. Tom also grew up in the commercial real estate industry and has experienced multiple market cycles through his family's involvement.

His previous involvement and experience in multiple investment real estate groups at Texas A&M and his array of human and technical resources at Hudson Peters allows him to see the non-advertised pros and cons to each deal. Tom's greatest strength is his strategic outlook. He understands the details of the transaction, while keeping his client's goal as the objective.
